Roman Pavement

This wonderful project results in a wall hanging or lap quilt 52" square. Carolyn will teach you how to get really good results at every stage.

- On Day 1, Carolyn will show you her clever techniques to make the central section – quick-piecing the units, and pressing the diagonal seams to obtain perfect points.
- On Day 2, various options for arranging the units can be explored, and once you have selected your final design, the central section is assembled.
- On Day 3, the units for the pieced border are completed – again more than one variation is possible. Then you will be shown how to make this fit perfectly onto the centre section.
- A final border is added, and you will learn how to make beautifully mitred corners – using a striped fabric which matches perfectly if you wish.

About Carolyn

Carolyn originally qualified as a Chemistry teacher, but after gaining a City & Guilds, has also taught patchwork and quilting for over twenty years. She loves the geometric possibilities of traditional blocks and enjoys developing ways for students to get precision results in more advanced projects.

Carolyn has designed many projects and written several articles about her quilts. A number of these have been published in magazines, including two Mystery Quilts designed for The Quilters' Guild. As well as teaching regularly at the Festival of Quilts, she had a stall there for a number of years selling her patterns. Highlights of her career have been when one of her students won the Sue Belton award, being selected to contribute to "In the Spotlight" at the Festival of Quilts and more recently, when she won the Amy Emms award to develop her knowledge of hand-quilting.
